

UNIT 1: PROJECT

NAME: NISHA SURESH PATIL

SECTION: F

SRN: PES2UG23CS393

PROBLEM STATEMENT: History Lesson Abstract

Goal: Summarize a long article about WWII into a flashcard format.

Tech: Summarization.

Abstract

This project implements a History Lesson Abstract Generator using Generative Artificial Intelligence. The system takes long historical text as input and produces a concise, flashcard-style summary using a pretrained transformer model. By leveraging the BART summarization model, the project demonstrates how abstractive summarization can be used to simplify complex historical content into learner-friendly formats. The application highlights the importance of model architecture and shows the practical use of Generative AI in educational contexts.

Documentation

In this project, I understood that different transformer architectures are designed for different natural language tasks. Encoder-decoder models like BART are particularly effective for abstractive summarization because they can understand input text and generate coherent summaries. It consists of an interactive summarization system that accepts user-provided historical paragraphs. And the summarized content is presented in a flashcard-style format, where each card represents a single key historical concept. The project uses Hugging Face's summarization pipeline and a simple user interface to demonstrate how Generative AI can enhance learning by converting long text into concise, readable knowledge units.

World War II[b] or the Second World War (1 September 1939 – 2 September 1945) was a global conflict between two coalitions: the Allies and the Axis powers. Nearly all of the world's countries participated, with many nations mobilising their resources in pursuit of total war. Tanks and aircraft played major roles, enabling the strategic bombing of cities and delivery of the first and only nuclear weapons ever used in war. World War II is the deadliest conflict in history, causing the death of over 60 million people. Millions died in genocides, including the Holocaust, and by massacres, starvation, and disease. After the Allied victory, Germany, Austria, Japan, and Korea were occupied, and German and Japanese leaders were put on trial for war crimes.

The causes of World War II included unresolved tensions in the aftermath of World War I, and the rise of fascism in Europe and militarism in Japan. Key events preceding the war included Japan's invasion of Manchuria in 1931, the Spanish Civil War, the outbreak of the Second Sino-Japanese War in 1937, and Germany's annexations of Austria and the Sudetenland. World War II is generally considered to have begun on 1 September 1939, when Nazi Germany, under Adolf Hitler, invaded Poland, after which the United Kingdom and France declared war on Germany. Poland was also invaded by the Soviet Union in mid-September, and was partitioned between Germany and the Soviet Union under the Molotov–Ribbentrop Pact. In 1940, the Soviet Union annexed the Baltic states and parts of Finland and Romania, while Germany conquered Norway, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands. After the fall of France in June 1940, the war continued mainly between Germany, now assisted by Fascist Italy, and the British Empire/British Commonwealth, with fighting in the Balkans, Mediterranean, and Middle East, East Africa, the aerial Battle of Britain and the Blitz, and the naval Battle of the Atlantic. By mid-1941 Yugoslavia and Greece had also been defeated by Axis countries. In June 1941, Germany invaded the Soviet Union, opening the Eastern Front and initially making large territorial gains along with Axis allies.

In December 1941, Japan attacked American and British territories in Asia and the Pacific, including Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, leading the United States to enter the war against the Axis. Japan conquered much of coastal China and Southeast Asia, but its advances in the Pacific were halted in June 1942 at the Battle of Midway. In early 1943, Axis forces were defeated in North Africa and at Stalingrad in the Soviet Union. An Allied invasion of Italy in July resulted in the fall of its fascist regime, and Allied offensives in the Pacific and the Soviet Union forced the Axis to retreat on all fronts. In 1944, the Western Allies invaded France at Normandy, and the Soviet Union advanced into Central Europe. During the same period, Japan suffered major setbacks, including the crippling of its navy by the United States, the loss of key Western Pacific islands, and defeats in South-Central China and Burma.
